TUESDAY, JULY 7.

COMMEMORATION.

The anniverſary of that important and memorable day, (the Fourth of July, 1776,) was commemorated here in a ſtyle highly characteriſtic of the feelings and ſentiments which the event ſhould inſpire. We cannot ſuppoſe that we have equalled many places in ſhew and numbers—but we may ſay, without a fear of aſcribing unmerited encomium, that we have not been exceeded for convivial harmony and reciprocal good will—had a ſelection been made of characters moſt noted for an uniformity of ſentiment, greater order and decorum could not have prevailed, nor cauſed more ſelf-ſatisfaction than was conſpicuous on the countenances of the whole of a promiſcuous aſſemblage on this happy occaſion.

In honor of the day the reſpective militia companies paraded in the court-houſe ſquare, at 11 o'clock, and went through a variety of military evolutions deſcriptive of a battle. The manœuvres were nearly as follow:—The artillery marched down Royal-ſtreet and took their poſition acroſs King-ſtreet, the cavalry and infantry at the ſame time marching down Fairfax-ſtreet to King-ſtreet, where the infantry formed, the cavalry proceeding on to charge on the flanks of the artillery where a ſham engagement took place; after three rounds a charge was made by the infantry and cavalry on the artillery, who retreated, and the whole marched out of town in different directions, when the engagement was renewed in the common, and a firing and manœuvring kept up, (the infantry and cavalry oppoſed to the artillery) till the artillery by retreating got hemed up by a fence, when the infantry made a charge in front and the cavalry on the wings, which obliged the artillery to leave their piece and retreat acroſs the fence, the infantry taking poſſeſſion of the field piece and carrying it off the ground, the cavalry covering the rear for ſome diſtance, when they halted and opened to the right and left, the artillery marching and taking their poſition in the center, in which order they proceeded into town, where the victorious party (which was previouſly agreed on) fired a feu de joy and marched in order to Spring Garden, where by a general invitation the citizens of the town were collected to partake of an elegant and plentiful dinner which had been prepared for them. After dinner the following toaſts were drank accompanied by a diſcharge of cannon.

1. THE DAY and all who honor it from principle.
2. Our country—May the will of its Citizens be the law of the land.
3d. The Congreſs of the United States—May they conſult nothing but the good of the people, and may the laws emanating from ſuch principles be obeyed with alacrity.
4th. Our Fellow-Citizen GEORGE WASHINGTON—May his virtues continue to deſerve the affection of the people.
5th. The agricultural, manufacturing and commercial intereſts of America—May they be nurſed by the plaſtic hand of a wiſe government, until they ſhall ſurpaſs thoſe of the greateſt nations.
6th. The ſpirit of Seventy-Six to all oppreſſed people—May they never want Patriots to aſſert their Rights.
7th. The Republic of France—May her exertions in the cauſe of Liberty emancipate all who groan under the iron hand of oppreſſion—and convince deſpots, that men determined on Freedom are Invincible.
8th. The Dutch Republic—May ſhe merit the affections of her Elder Siſters.
9. Poland—May her apoſtate citizens be rouſed to a ſenſe of duty, and join her patriots in the cauſe of freedom, and may their united efforts be crowned with ſucceſs.
10. England—May her ſons profit by the preſent ſtate of oppreſſion, and may they ſoon become wiſe enough to inſtruct their oppreſſors that they are Men.
11. The whole family of mankind—May they fraternize, and may liberty be as diffuſive as air.
12. The heroes who fell in the glorious conteſt for American Independence—May their memories be dear to all ſucceeding generations.
13 The navy of France—May its glorious exertions remove every obſtacle to the free navigation of the ſeas.
14. The fair of Columbia.
15. The town of Alexandria—May her commerce ſoon equal her natural advantages.

VOLUNTEERS.

May all free nations form treaties worthy their principles, and may they drive from among them Superſtition, Tyranny and Royalty.

The young and riſing generation of America.

A ſpeedy emancipation of our brethren in Algiers, and may the meaſures purſued by Congreſs ſoon reſtore them to the boſom of their friends and country.

Appointments—by Authority.

Benjamin Hawkins, George Clymer, Andrew Pickins—commiſſioners for holding a Treaty with the Creek Indians reſpecting the ceſſion of certain lands on the frontiers of South-Carolina.

William Nichols, Marſhal of the Diſtrict of Pennſylvania.

John Davis, of Plymouth, Maſſachuſetts, comptroller of the treaſury.

Fulwar Skipwith, Conſul General of the United States in France.

John Kelty of Maryland, inſpector of the Revenue for Survey No 1, Diſtrict of Maryland.

John Stockton, commiſſioner of Loans, ſtate Delaware, vice James Tilton reſigned.

Dudley Atkins Tying, collector of the Diſtrict of Newburyport, vice Edward Wiggleſworth ſuperceded.

George Forreſter, collector of the Diſtrict of Sunbury, ſtate of Georgia.

PHILADELPHIA, JULY 1.

In SENATE of the UNITED STATES.

June 26. 1795.

Reſolved, That the injunction of ſecrecy concerning the communications made by the Preſident of the United States, on the 8th of June, inſtant, be reſcinded; but that it be nevertheleſs enjoined upon the Senators, not to authorize or allow, any copy of the ſaid Communications, or any article thereof.

The above Reſolution will ſhew the impropriety of Mr. Maſon, making public an unfiniſhed negociation.

We underſtand from authority, that Mr. Jay has reſigned the office of Chief Juſtice of the United States: In conſequence of this vacancy, the writs iſſued from the Supreme and Circuit Courts of the United States muſt be teſted as is directed by the following extract from the act of the 8th May, 1792.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and Houſe of Repreſentatives of the United States of America in Congreſs aſſembled, that all writs and proceſſes iſſuing from the Supreme or a Circuit Court, ſhall bear teſt of the Chief Juſtice of the Supreme Court, (or if that office be vacant) of the aſſociate Juſtice next in precedence."

NEW-YORK, JULY 2.

Mr. Jay took his oath of office as governor of the ſtate of New-York, and Mr. Van Renſſelaer as Lieutenant-Governor, yeſterday, without much ceremony—We heard no firing of guns, nor ringing of bells on this ſolemn occaſion.

It was currently reported yeſterday, that a petition, which had ſeveral thouſands of names upon it, is handed round at Philadelphia, praying the Preſident of the United States to withhold his ſignature from the Treaty.

It is alſo ſaid, that the French miniſter plenipotentiary has already ſent off diſpatches to France on the ſubject of the Treaty.

Philadelphia, June 29th 1795.

SIR,

I have seen in your paper of this date an abstract of the late Treaty between the United States and Great Britain, which though not perfectly correct, is nearly so.

As this publication will probably excite a newspaper discussion, it is of importance that the People should possess a full and accurate knowledge of the subject to which their attention may be drawn, and which I think has already been improperly withheld from them. Lest therefore the Treaty should be presumed more favourable, or represented to be less so than it really is, I will send you herewith a genuine copy, which you may correct your statement by, or make such other use of as you please, for the purpose of giving to the citizens of America full information respecting this momentous business.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
STEPHENS THON. MASON.
[One of the Senators from Virginia.]

To Benj. Franklin Bache, Editor of the Aurora.

TREATY OF AMITY, COMMERCE AND NAVIGATION, BETWEEN HIS BRITANNIC MAJESTY AND THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

His Britannick Majesty and the United States of America, being desirous by a treaty of amity, commerce and navigation, to terminate their differences in such a manner, as without reference to the merits of their respective complaints and pretensions, may be the best calculated to produce mutual satisfaction and good understanding: And also to regulate the Commerce and Navigation between their respective countries, territories and people, in such a manner as to render the same reciprocally beneficial and satisfactory; they have, respectively, named their Plenipotentiaries, and given them full powers to treat of, and conclude the said Treaty, that is to say; His Britannic Majesty has named for his plenipotentiary, the Right Honourable William Wyndham Baron Grenville of Wotton, one of his Majesty's Privy Council, and his Majesty's principal Secretary of State for Foreign affairs; and the President of the said United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof, hath appointed for their plenipotentiary, the Honourable John Jay, Chief Justice of the United States and their Envoy Extraordinary to his Majesty, who have agreed on, and concluded the following articles:

ARTICLE I. There shall be a firm, inviolable and universal peace, and a true and sincere friendship between his Britannic Majesty, his heirs and successors, and the United States of America; and between their respective countries, territories, cities, towns and people of every degree, without exception of persons or places.

ART. II. His Majesty will withdraw all his troops and garrisons from all posts and places within the boundary lines assigned by the treaty of peace to the United States. This evacuation shall take place on or before the first day of June, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-six, and all the proper measures shall in the interval be taken by concert between the government of the United States, and his Majesty's Gover. General in America, for settling the previous arrangements which may be necessary respecting the delivery of the said posts: The United States in the mean time at their discretion, extending their settlements to any part within the said boundary line, except within the precincts or jurisdiction of any of the said posts. All settlers and traders, within the precincts or jurisdiction of the said posts, shall continue to enjoy, unmolested, all their property of every kind, and shall be protected therein. They shall be at full liberty to remain there, or to remove with all or any part of their effects; and it shall also be free to them to sell their lands, houses or effects, or to retain the property thereof, at their discretion; such of them as shall continue to reside within the said boundary lines shall not be compelled to become citizens of the United States, or to take any oath of allegiance to the government thereof, but they shall be at full liberty so to do, if they think proper, and they shall make and declare their election within one year after the evacuation aforesaid. And all persons who shall continue there after the expiration of remaining subjects of his Britannic Majesty, shall be considered as having elected to become citizens of the United States.

ART. III. It is agreed that it shall at all times be free to his Majesty's subjects, and to the citizens of the United States, and also to the Indians dwelling on either side of the said boundary line, freely to pass and repass by land or inland navigation, into the respective territories and countries of the two parties on the continent of America [the country within the limits of the Hudson's Bay company only excepted] and to navigate all the lakes, rivers, and waters thereof, and freely to carry on trade and commerce with each other. But it is understood that this article does not extend to the admission of vessels of the United States into the sea ports, harbours, bays, or creeks of his Majesty's said territories; nor into such parts of the rivers in his Majesty's said territories as are between the mouth thereof, and the highest port of entry from the sea, except in small vessels trading bona fide between Montreal and Quebec, under such regulations as shall be established to prevent the possibility of any frauds in this respect. Nor to the admission of British vessels from the sea into the rivers of the United States, beyond the highest ports of entry for foreign vessels from the sea. The river Mississippi shall, however, according to the treaty of peace, be entirely open to both parties; and it is further agreed, that all the ports and places on its eastern side, to whichsoever of the parties belonging, may freely be resorted to, and used by both parties, in as ample a manner as any of the Atlantic ports or places of the United States, or any of the ports or places of his Majesty in Great-Britain.

All goods and merchandize whose importations into his Majesty's said territories in America, shall not be entirely prohibited, may freely, for the purposes of Commerce, be carried into the same in the manner aforesaid, by the citizens of the United States, and subject to no higher or other duties than would be payable by his majesty's subjects on the importation of the same from Europe into the said territories. And in like manner, all goods and merchandize whose importation into the United States shall not be wholly prohibited, may freely, for the purpose of Commerce, be carried into the same, in the manner aforesaid, by his majesty's subjects, and such goods and merchandize shall be subject to no higher or other duties than would be payable by the citizens of the United States on the importation of the same in American vessels in the Atlantic ports of the said States. And all goods not prohibited to be exported from the said territories, respectively, may in like manner be carried out of the same by the two parties respectively, paying duty as aforesaid.

No duty of entry shall ever be levied by either party on peltries brought by land, or inland navigation into the said territories respectively, nor shall the Indians passing or repassing with their own proper goods and effects of whatever nature, pay for the same any impost or duty whatever. But goods in bales, or other large packages unusual among Indians shall not be considered as goods belonging bona fide to Indians.

No higher or other tolls or rates of ferriage than what are or shall be payable by natives, shall be demanded on either side; and no duties shall be payable on any goods which shall merely be carried over any of the portages or carrying places on either side; for the purpose of being immediately reimbarked and carried to some other place or places. But as by this stipulation it is only meant to secure to each party a free passage across the portages on both sides, it is agreed, that this exemption from duty shall extend only to such goods as are carried in the usual and direct road across the portage, and are not attempted to be in any manner sold or exchanged during their passage across the same, and proper regulations may be established to prevent the possibility of any frauds in this respect.

As this article is intended to render in a great degree the local advantages of each party common to both, and thereby to promote a disposition favourable to friendship and good neighbourhood, it is agreed, that the respective governments will mutually promote this amicable intercourse, by causing speedy and impartial justice to be done, and necessary protection to be extended to all who may be concerned therein.

ART. IV. Whereas it is uncertain whether the river Mississippi extends so far to the northward as to be intersected by a line to be drawn due west from the Lake of the Woods in the manner mentioned in the treaty of peace between his Majesty and the United States, it is agreed, that measures shall be taken in concert between his Majesty's government in America and the government of the United States for making a joint survey of the said river from one degree of latitude below the falls of St. Anthony, to the principal source or sources of the said river, and also of the parts adjacent thereto; and that if on the result of such survey, it should appear that the said river would not be intersected by such a line as is above mentioned, the two parties will thereupon proceed by amicable negociation to regulate the boundary line in that quarter, as well as all other points to be adjusted between the said parties, according to justice and mutual convenience, and in conformity to the intent of the said treaty.

ART. V. Whereas doubts have arisen what river was truly intended under the name of the river St. Croix, mentioned in the said treaty of peace, and forming a part of the boundary therein described, that question shall be referred to the final decision of commissioners to be appointed in the following manner, viz.

One commissioner shall be named by his Majesty, and one by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof, and the said two commissioners shall agree on the choice of a third; or if they cannot so agree, they shall each propose one person, and of the two names so proposed, one shall be drawn by lot in the presence of the two original commissioners. And the three commissioners so appointed, shall be sworn impartially to examine and decide the said question according to such evidence as shall respectively be laid before them on the part of the British government and of the United States. The said commissioners shall meet at Halifax, and shall have power to adjourn to such other place or places as they shall think fit. They shall have power to appoint a Secretary, and to employ such surveyor or other persons as they shall judge necessary. The said commissioners shall by a declaration under their hands and seals decide what river is the river St. Croix intended by the treaty. The said declaration shall contain a description of the said river, and shall particularize the latitude and longitude of its mouth and of its source. Duplicates of this declaration and of the statements of their accounts, and of the journal of their proceedings shall be delivered by them to the Agent of his Majesty and to the Agent of the United Sates, who may be respectively appointed and authorized to manage the business on behalf of the respective governments. And both parties agree to consider such decision as final and conclusive, so as that the same shall never thereafter be called into question, or made the subject of dispute or difference between them.

From the Gazette of the United States.

Translated from the Courier Francois.

To the Editor.

Baltimore, June 24th, 1795.

CITIZEN,

I now inform you that I have received a Letter from my Brother, a merchant at St. Malo, which informs me of the Demands made by the Committee of Safety of the English envoys, who are come to treat of peace.—You may, if you think proper, publish in your paper the substance of these demands which I enclose. Health and Fraternity.

P. FRENIER.

The letter is dated 23d Floreal—May 12.

On the demand made by the envoys of the Court of London now at Paris, treating of peace; France consents to give peace to England on the following conditions:

The evacuation—first of the Islands of Jersey and Guernsey.

2d. Our possessions of the Antilles, those taken in the present and preceding war.

3d. The Island of Corsica.

4th. Our possessions in the East-Indies.

Our ancient possessions in North-America, Canada, Newfoundland, and Acadie, [Nova-Scotia.]

To pay the damages done at Toulon, according to estimation.

To restore in kind, all the vessels taken during the present war, and an equal number of ships of the English navy to those burnt at Toloun.

To pay the expenses of the war, amounting to 100 million of specie;—leaving it however optional to England, to pay part in specie, part in corn, flour, and other articles of the first necessity.

To abandon forever to the discretion of France, the Electorate of Hanover and the Bishoprick of Oznaburg.

To restore all the vessels taken at St. Domingo, Guadaloupe, Martinique, and Tobago—or to pay their value.

To deliver up all the emigrants in England, as well as in Europe and other parts of the world—and to direct the British commanders to prevent the escape of those vagabonds.

And to insure the Treaty—England shall deliver to France one of her nearest strong holds, in which the republic shall put a garrison, which she shall not evacuate till after an entire execution of the Treaty.

P. S. The places taken by the English in the former war are—Grenada, and the Grenadines, St. Kitts, St. Vincent, Dominique, and Montserrat.

Mrs. D'HEMARD,

Lately from PARIS,
